Dear Minister Ambrose:

It was good working with you on the CN strike. I appreciate and thank you for your co-operative spirit.

However, the museums strike is still of major concern to me and I believe it is time to act. As you know, this is the opposite scenario of CN except that the strike is now in its 11th week. This is much too long with no end in sight.

Christmas is coming and those workers need their income to look after their families this holiday season. I think it is time to put pressure on the employer to agree to binding arbitration as the union has agreed to do. In the CN strike you had pressured the union to agree to binding arbitration as the employer had agreed to. Failing that, Parliament should act.

Thank you for your time in this regard.

Sincerely,

Maria Minna
